

Dear parents of students home for lunch,

To highlight the Canadian Water Week and World Water Day events, your child's school will be participating in the Tchin-Tchin Challenge, taking place the third week of March. The main goals are to promote water as the best liquid drink to stay hydrated and promote healthy self-care water habits, while engaging in fun activities.

Since the Challenge will take place during lunchtime, we encourage parents to partake at home. Throughout the week, we encourage you to serve water to yourself and your child during mealtimes, taking part in the Tchin-tchin together, as a family. This simple gesture is meant to be educational, in order to value the consumption of water.

Towards the end of the week, to celebrate your child's participation in the Tchin-tchin Challenge, you can download and personalize the participation certificate at thirstyforhealth/home. You will also find some great and simple ideas to inspire daily water consumption at home (including flavored water recipes).

As parents, you will be playing a key role in helping to support and promote your child's healthy hydration habits, which may potentially follow them throughout their life, contributing to their overall health.

We hope you have a pleasant Tchin-Tchin experience with your child.

The Tchin-tchin Challenge is a joint initiative of the Association québécoise de la garde scolaire (AQGS) and the Collectif Vital.
